Castaways from a Spanish Bark Picked Up

after Five Bays of Suffering. The trip of the three-masted schooper Anna B. Hutcheson from Chagres, United States of Colombia, to this port, where she arrived vesterday morning, was exciting and eventful. She left Chagres on Oct. 1. On the 9th a heavy gale came on, through which the vessel rode under close-reefed main and foresails. The wind increased in the night, and early next morning Capt. Zeluff decided that a hurricane was brewing. All sail was taken in, and the schooner was put before the wind undor bare poles. The hurricane did come up, and at 9 o'clock that morning the foremast was carried away at the cap. The fiving jibboom was also carried away. The vessel lost her headway and fell into the trough of the sea, then lay over on her beam ends and became unmanageable, the sea nway. The yessel lost her headway and fell into the trough of the soa, then lay over on her beam ends and became unmanageable, the sea breaking completely over her. She lay helpless for six hours, until in the afternoon the wind changed and moderated. In the evening a close-reefed foresail was set, and with a hard gale blowing, the Hutcheson went east as best she could. On Monday morning, Oct. 11, the wenther cleared and became fine.

On Thursday the 14th the schooner was standing north with all sail sot, when, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the steersman discovered a speck on the horizon almost dead ahead. The Hutcheson held her course, and Capt. Zeluff soon made out a party of men standing on what seemed to be a half-submerged boat. They were waving shirts and other pieces of clothing to attract attention. Capt. Zeluff sent a boat to their assistance, and brought them aboard the Hutcheson. They proved to be the Captain, first mate, and four seamen of the Spanish bark Tres Auroras, from Barcelona for Havana. The two officers were so weak that they could not stand; the sailors had suffered less. Capt. Zeluff landed them at Key West on Oct. 18, whence they were sent to Havana by the Spanish Consul.

Capt. Zeluff, in the office of his consulnees, said yesterday afternoon that he had lost the paper with the names of the rescued men on it, and could not give them. "When we first discovered the men," he said. "they were about four miles away, a mere speck on the water. We lay to when we got near enough, and sent a boat to them. I thought they were in a boat half full of water, but they were on the top of what had been a deck house. The top was about twenty feet square, but it was upside down, and the men had to hang on to the ends, with their legs in the water, but they were on the top of what had been in deck house. The top was about twenty feet square, but it was upside down, and the men had to hang on to the onds, which were the only parts out of water.

Two County Officers Burned to Death a Few Hours After Their Election.

LOOGOOTEE, Ind., Nov. 3.—At 3 o'clock this morning the Ackerman Hotel, a two-story frame building, was burned, and three men perished in the flames. They were forgotten in the excitement until it was too inte to save them. Two of them were John C. Gates and Michael Tracey, who were yesterday elected Trensurer and Auditor of Martin county. Worn out by the exertions of the day they retired at a late hour and were not awakened until too into to escape.

Gates died a death of torture, as indicated by the position in which his body was found. The third victim was John Burch, whose presence in the building was unknown. He leaves a family of four children. Gates had eleven children, mostly grown.

Live English Pheasants by the Thousand. The Bromen steamer Fulda, which arrived at Roboken on Tuesday, had on board the largest lot of Euglish pheasants ever sent to America. There were about 2,000 of them. They are the first installment of nany that are to be imported this fall by Charles Reich-and that they will breed as freely here as at home.

Each Partner Tried to Save Himself. Adolph L. Goetal of 226 East Fifty-neventh street missed his gold watch in a crowd in Chambers street on Oct. 22. He caught hold of a rough looking young man and demanded the watch. "I haven't your watch," was the response. "That young fellow there has it in his cost pocket." Theraupen the other young man who was pointed out took the watch from his outside cost pocket and handed it to Mr. footet. Beteching the pocket and handed it to Mr. footet. JOSIE EGBERT'S STARTLING DISCOFERY A Man Hanging Dead from the Chandell when she Went to Practice Music. Josic Egbert, a pretty girl, who lives with her brother, a grocer, at 657 Washington street. loves music, but has no piano. Around the corner from her house Gilbert Vrinden, a sawdust peddler, lived with his wife and family at 160 Christopher street. Mr. Vrinden owned a piano, the use of which he sold for two hours' a day to Miss Egbert. Yesterday morning Miss Egbert entered the front parior in Vrinden's house to practice on the piano, when she nearly fainted at discovering Vrinden's body swinging by a rope from a chandelier in the back For a quarter of a century residents of the Ninth ward have been familiar with the figure Ninth ward have been familiar with the figure of Gilbert Vrinden. Rain or shine, with his load of sawdust, he drove up and down to supply his customers at bar rooms, butcher shops, and groceries, with one old horse and ramshackle cart. When he died he had two horses and two big carts, built expressly for sawdust distribution. He accumulated money, and bought real estate in Jersey City. He leased the house in which he lived. He had five grown-up sons who helped him in his business. Vrinden had attempted suicide before, Several years ago he tried to hang himself in the same place and in a similar manner, but he was cut down by one of the family. He promised never to repeat the performance.

Mr. Vrinden had dragged a table under the chandelier, put a chair on the table, and climbed to the chair, When standing on the chair he had tied a rope about his neck, fastened it to the chandelier, and then jumped from the chair. He had been dead for several hours when the body was discovered. It is believed that he had drank to excess on election day.

M'CARE WILL BE ARRAIGNED TO-DAY. If he is Incane he Will be Kept in a State Asylum Until Fit for Trial,

Ex-Alderman Francis McCabe of the Boodle Board of 1884, who is under indictment for bribery, will be arraigned in the General Sessions before Judge Cowing to-day. A jury will be impanelled, and the question as to whether he is insane, as is claimed by his counsel, Howe & Hummel and Lawyer Newcombe, will be finally disposed of, Drs. Me-Donald and Allan McLain Hamilton will testify as experts for the people, and Dr. Ham-mond for the defence. Warden Keating of mond for the defence. Warden Keating of Ludlow atreet jail, where McCabe has been locked up since his arrest and commitment for trial, will also testify.

McCabe's counsel will have the right to introduce evidence that he is insame before District Attorney Martine and Assistant District Attorney Martine and Assistant District Attorney Martine and Assistant District Attorney Martine and the established order of criminal trials is due to the fact that the burden of proof is shifted, in a trial of the question of sanity, from the people to the defendant. There was little doubt expressed vesterday that the jury will find that McCabe is insame, and therefore incapable of making a defence to the pending indictment. If this is their verdict, Judge Cowing will commit McCabe to the State asylum at Poughkeepsic, to be retained until he is sufficiently restered mentally to stand trial.

GOODS SEIZED ON MEN-OF-WAR.

The Officers Meant No Fraud, Though Set of the Articles Were Butlable. WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 .- Assistant Secretary Fairchild has written to the Collector of Customs at Newport in regard to his action in sing duty on certain goods lately brought into that port by officers of the naval ships Portsmouth and Saratoga. He divides the articles into these four classes:

1. Wines purchased abroad by the caterers of the meas es, and in use for consumption aboard the vessels.

2. Articles of wearing apparel bought for the officers'

3. Wines and other articles, which may be for the household use of such officers, which may be for the household use of such officers.

4. Articles including wines, gloves, clothing, Ac., imported for the use of persons other than the officers ripring the same. Mr. Fairchild says:

Mr. Fairchild says:

The first two classes mentioned are, in the opinion of the department, satisfied to free entry. The articles covered by the last two classes are, however, liable to duty, and the necessary steps should be taken to collect the same. Insamuon, however, as under the statute merchandles cannot be imported under any pretence in a vessel of the intention of the said articles of the control of the said articles of the said articles of the said articles of the said articles of the control of the part of the control of the free-unity, who also advises that in his opinion no penalties have been incurred by the officers in the premises, unless fraud can be shown.

The Board of Foreign Missions of the Methdist Episcopal Church, in session yesterday at 805 Broadway, considered a proposal to pay Dr. Taylor, the missionary Bishop of Africa, $3,000 a year, in spite of is continued declarations that he did not want it and would not take it.

Dr. Bingham thought that if he didn't want it there was no use of voting it to him.

Dr. Curry was afraid that if he didn't take it after it had been voted him, and died in Central atrica, his heirs would sue the Board of Missions for it, since it virtually was his after it had been voted him.

Somebody suggested that if the heirs didn't sue for what was theirs by inheritance, and which had been carned and was not a gift, it would show them to be possessed of preuliarly charitable dispositions.

It was decided to credit the Bishop with $5,000 back salary which he had not drawn and to vote him an additions; $5,000 for the ensuing year. A motion to give him another $1,000 for house rent was lost.

"Christ Before Plinte."

Munkacsy's enormous canvas, his "Christ Before Pliate," has been brought to this country by a clever Parisian speculator named Siedelmeier, and will be placed on exhibition, probably on Monday next, in the Twenty-third Street Temple, which was to have been the home of Salmi Morse's "Passion Play." The picture is a great one in more senses than one, and will attract and repay attention.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn breath of misery and disease dulting the sense of hearing, trammelling the power of duling the sense of hearing, training the speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate costs and causing in-fammation, sloughing, and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and total eradication will scener health to the patient, and all elieviatives are simply procrastinated sufferings, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed, even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell, and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

thoroughly driven out."
